GILES HITS AIR BUMP, JUNKERS CANNOT RISE

2 AMBITIOUS LONG FLIGHTS COME TO GRIEF

BRITISH FLIER FLEW 480 TO SEA AND THEN TURNED BACK

GERMAN PLANE WITH VIENNESE
ACTRESS CARRIED TOO
HEAVY A LOAD

San Francisco, Nov. 23.—(UP)—Captain Frederick A. Giles, whose proposed trans-Pacific flight to Australia ended yesterday afternoon at the William Randolph Hearst ranch at San Simeon, halfway between San Francisco and Los Angeles, was preparing to return here today by auto.

Although he flew his plane to the California coast from a point 480 miles off the Golden Gate, he notified his backers here that it is unsafe for flying and will have to be repaired before he can bring it here for another take-off for Honolulu and Australia.

Giles said he struck an "air bump" while flying in a heavy storm about 480 miles out. His plane, he said, was overturned.

"I struck the coast line about 50 miles north of here and followed the shoreline until I found a safe landing field."

Giles landed in a field about one mile from the Hearst ranch house. He missed the ranch's aviation field.

Giles was in the air about eight hours. He took off from Mills Field here at 7:23 A. M., and landed at San Simeon at about 3:20 P. M. In that time he traveled more than 960 miles at an average speed of 120 miles an hour.

Horta, Fayal Island, Azores, Nov. 23.—Whether the crew of the Junkers seaplane, D-1230—which made an unsuccessful attempt yesterday to fly to Newfoundland—would again try the western trans-Atlantic flight this season, was doubtful today.

The flight failed yesterday when the heavy plane, after whirling down the waters of the harbor just at dusk, failed to rise because its load was too heavy.

Aviation enthusiasts today doubted whether lateness of the season would permit sufficiently good flying weather for the flight. The three airmen, Johann Ristic, Alexander Von Benheim and Fritz Loose, expressed disappointment when they returned to Horta, but would not discuss possibility of another flight this season.

MASS MEETING OF MAYORS ALONG N. P. AND G. N. CALLED

REP. MELVIN J. MAAS ADDRESSES
ST. PAUL CITY COUNCIL

SAYS ECONOMIES OF MERGER WOULD COME LARGELY FROM REDUCED PAYROLLS

St. Paul, Nov. 23.—(UP)—Mayors and officials of all municipalities on lines of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railroads have been asked to attend a mass meeting to protest the proposed unification of the two rail systems. A definite date for the meeting has not yet been set.

Announcement of the proposed mass session came following a civic session in the council chambers here last night. Rep. Melvin J. Maas, in the principal address, declared that consolidation of the two railroads would mean the end of St. Paul as the railroad and transportation capital of the northwest.

"Economies it is claimed would result by the merger would come largely from reduced payrolls," he said. "It has not been shown that and savings would be passed on to the public. Unification of the two lines is not necessary. Both are now operating successfully. Railroads are operated for public service, and the public has real rights to be preserved," he added.

A PROCLAMATION By the President of the United States

Under the guidance and watchful care of a divine and beneficent Providence this country has been carried safely through another year. Almighty God has continued to bestow upon us the light of his countenance, and we have prospered. Not only have we enjoyed material success, but we have advanced in wisdom and spiritual understanding. The products of our fields and our factories and of our manifold activities have been maintained on a high level. We have gained in knowledge of the higher values of life. There has been advancement in our physical well being. We have increased our desire for the things that minister to the mind and to the soul. We have raised the mental and moral standards of life.

We have had the blessings of peace and of honorable and friendly relations with our sister nations throughout the world. Disasters visiting certain of our States have touched the heart of a sympathetic nation, which has responded generously out of its abundance. In continuing to remember those in affliction we should rejoice in our ability to give them relief.

Now that these twelve months are drawing to a close, it is fitting that, as a nation and as individuals, in accordance with time-honored sacred custom, we should consider the manifold blessings granted to us. While in gratitude we rejoice we should humbly pray that we may be worthy of continuation of divine favor.

Wherefore, I, Calvin Coolidge, President of the United States, do hereby set apart and designate Thursday, the 24th day of November next, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer, and recommend and urge that on that day our people lay aside their usual tasks, and by the family fireside and in their accustomed places of public worship, give thanks to him who holds all in the hollow of His hand.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington this 24th day of October, in the year of Our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven, and of the Independence of the United States of America, the one hundred and fifty-second.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

By the President:
Frank B. Kellogg, Secretary of State.

MAY PLAY AT TEA LEAF FORTUNE TELLING

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 23.—(UP)—Minneapolis may play at tea leaf fortune telling as long as it pleases, so long as it does not take itself seriously. Judge Manley L. Fosseen ruled yesterday in municipal court in dismissing two of four defendants charged with vagrancy.

The arrests were made Friday by a police purty squad. Two of the cases were called for trial yesterday. The other two will be dismissed when they are called for trial today, the court declared.

At the tearooms, the fortunes of patrons were read in the tea leaves of their cups after the meals.

SELF-CONFESSED SLAYER OF FIVE IS EXECUTED

Raiford, Fla., Nov. 23.—(UP)—Benjamin Levin, west coast fisherman, self-confessed slayer of five members of the Loomie Merrill family of Tampa, was electrocuted in the state prison here yesterday. Several people were killed and a score wounded after his first arrest, when a mob stormed the jail in which he was believed imprisoned.

FOUND GUILTY OF SECRETING AND EMBEZZLING MAIL

St. Paul, Nov. 23.—(UP)—Walter M. Heidenreich, former St. Paul mail carrier, was found guilty today by a federal court jury of secreting and embezzling United States mails. Sentence was deferred until Monday.

Heidenreich was charged in an indictment with secreting and embezzling mail going to the Webb Publishing Co.

COME, YE FAITHFUL PEOPLE, COME

Come, ye thankful people, come,
Raise the song of harvest-home:
All is safely gathered in,
Ere the winter storms begin;
God, our Maker, doth provide
For our wants to be supplied;
Come to God's own temple, come,
Raise the song of harvest-home.

All the world is God's own field,
Fruit unto His praise to yield;
Wheat and tares together sown,
Unto joy or sorrow grown:
First the blade, and then the ear,
Then the full corn shall appear:
Grant, O harvest Lord, that we
Wholesome grain and pure may be.

For the Lord our God shall come,
And shall take His harvest home;
From His field shall in that day
All offenses purge away;
Give His angels charge at last
In the fire the tares to cast,
But the fruitful ears to store
In His garner evermore.

Even so, Lord, quickly come
To Thy final harvest-home;
Gather Thou Thy people in,
Free from sorrow, free from sin;
There, forever purified,
In Thy presence to abide:
Come, with all Thine angels, come,
Raise the glorious harvest-home.

FULL WINTER OF COURT ACTION NOW PROMISED

FALL-SINCLAIR TEAPOT DOME CASE GIVES WORK FOR GOVERNMENT

VARIOUS PHASES OF LITIGATION
FOLLOWED BY JURY-TAM-PERING CHARGES

Washington, Nov. 23.—Government counsel prepared today to face a full winter of court action, growing from various phases of the Fall-Sinclair Teapot Dome case and subsequent jury-tampering charges.

To the series of cases now pending were added today contempt proceedings against Harry F. Sinclair, millionaire oil magnate, William J. Burns, detective agency head, and four of their associates. Indictments are expected soon in the jury tampering case, adding another to the long series of inter-related cases. Lawyers themselves are confused.

The government is expected today to take its first step to bring some order from the confusion by moving to advance the hearing on a complaint against Sheldon Clark, Sinclair lieutenant, for alleged attempts to influence the jury. It was set for next Friday but the government wants a date after Dec. 5, the day when Sinclair, Burns and their aides will appear here to show cause why they should not be cited for contempt, as ordered yesterday by Justice Suddens. Clark was named in the contempt citation. Others named besides Sinclair and Burns were Burns' son, Sherman; Charles S. Veitsch, head of Burns' Baltimore office, and H. Mason Day, another Sinclair official.

Washington, Nov. 23.—Hearing on the complaint against Sheldon Clark of Chicago, vice president of the Sinclair Refining Company, on a charge of conspiracy to influence the Fall-Sinclair jury today was continued from next Friday, when scheduled, to December 5, the day when contempt proceedings against him and six others will begin here.

The continuance was approved by U. S. Commissioner Needham Turnage upon motion of Neil Burkinshaw, assistant to U. S. District Attorney Peyton Gordon.

SON ACCIDENTALLY KILLS HIS MOTHER WITH REVOLVER

Minneapolis, Nov. 23.—(UP)—Mrs. Mabel Simmonds was accidentally shot and killed last night when a revolver which her son was carrying to his father who intended to remove the cartridges, was discharged.

The son, Laverne, 15, found the revolver in a railroad yards several days ago. When he showed it to his father, Alexander Simmonds, the latter took it away from the boy, and placed it on a high closet shelf.

Last night the father said he would remove the cartridges from the weapon. Laverne went to get it. Unused to fire arms, the boy pulled the trigger. There was a shot. The bullet passed through a portier, and struck his mother in the chest. She was dead when a doctor arrived.

TWO TWIN CITY WEEKLY PAPERS ARE SILENCED

TEMPORARY ACTION TAKEN BY HENNEPIN COUNTY GRAND JURY

HEARING ON INJUNCTION TO PROHIBIT PUBLICATION SET
FOR DECEMBER 12

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 23.—(UP)—Two Twin Cities weekly newspapers—the Twin City Reporter and the Saturday Press—were silenced temporarily late Tuesday by the Hennepin county grand jury.

A temporary restraining order prohibiting both papers from publishing any further editions pending a hearing December 12 on the application of a permanent injunction was issued at the recommendation of the inquisitorial body.

The temporary order was signed by Judge Mathias Baldwin.

The publication of defamatory, scandalous and malicious material is charged against both newspapers, while the Twin City Reporter was declared to be an "obscene, lewd and lascivious newspaper."

16 NORTHWEST FARMERS SHOWN MARKED HONORS

ACCORDED DEGREES OF MASTER
FARMER AT MINNEAPOLIS
CEREMONIES

DINNER ATTENDED BY 400 BUSI-NESS MEN OF THE TWIN CITIES

Minneapolis, Nov. 23.—(UP)—Sixteen northwest farmers were accorded degrees of master farmer at a dinner here last night, attended by 400 businessmen of the Twin Cities.

The farmers, selected by vote in their various communities came from Minnesota, Wisconsin, North and South Dakota. Their wives received degrees as "master home bakers," not in the regular program, but in tributes sent home by radio as the master farmers received medals emblematic of their achievement.

The history of the master farmer movement was outlined by Dan Wallace, editor of The Farmer, a publication, which fostered the plan in the northwest.

The dependency of the northwest railroads upon agriculture was told by Charles Donnelly, president of the Northern Pacific railroad.

"Whenever northwest agriculture goes to the wall," he said, "the northwest railroads will not be long in following."

The American farmer, Donnelly said, through use of modern machinery and with his better education, produces 2.5 times as much as the farmer of England, three times as much as the German farmer and six times as much as the farmers of France.

Northwest commerce likewise paid tribute to the master farmers through several speakers.

PRES. COOLIDGE TO READ THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION

Washington, Nov. 23.—(UP)—President Coolidge will read his Thanksgiving proclamation Wednesday evening for a nation-wide radio broadcast it was announced late yesterday at the White House. More than 20 stations will broadcast the proclamation which will be read by Mr. Coolidge in his study at the White House.

A PROCLAMATION By the Governor of Minnesota

Three hundred twenty-six years ago, in November, 1601, the Pilgrim fathers at Plymouth sent four young men into the surrounding wilderness to secure game, and on their return held the first Thanksgiving. It was a day not of mere feasting, but also of devout thanks to Almighty God for the first harvest reaped in the New World.

Thus was inaugurated an occasion to become memorable in American history. During the Revolution Congress appointed days of thanksgiving. Following adoption of the federal constitution, Thanksgiving was observed in 1784 throughout the Colonies. In 1795, Washington proclaimed Thanksgiving for the advent of prosperity throughout the new republic. President Madison asked observance of the day for victory won in the war of 1812. President Lincoln proclaimed Thanksgiving in 1864 for the dawn of peace following the Civil War. Each successive president as well as the governors of the various states have since issued annual proclamations asking the people to give thanks for blessings received.

Hallowed with more than three centuries of American traditions, Thanksgiving comes to us with patriotic as well as religious significance. It is a day to renew our vows of loyalty to the principles the fathers established in the founding of our country. It is a day sacred to the memories of those who made the supreme sacrifice on many battlefields that we might continue a free and independent people. In their memory and in love of country, let the flag be displayed on all public buildings and elsewhere throughout the state. Let civic organizations, public officials and private citizens unite in patriotic observances.

It is a day to give thanks not only for material blessings, but for the immeasurable resources of our citizenship. In the accomplishment of American ideals is more national gain than in the wealth of harvests gleaned, metals mined, or in the riches of our industrial production.

With grateful hearts, let the people respond to the call to worship and give thanks to Him from Whom all blessings flow. Let vocations and business be laid aside and the day be given over to sacred and patriotic observances.

Now, therefore, I, Theodore Christianson, Governor of the State of Minnesota, do hereby designate and set apart THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1927, to be observed as Thanksgiving Day.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State of Minnesota, this 14th day of November, A. D. 1927.

THEODORE CHRISTIANSON.

KNOCKING DOWN HIS WIFE COST $50 COURT FINE

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 23.—(UP)—Knocking down one's wife costs $50 according to quotations in police court today.

Mrs. Christine Johnson testified her husband knocked her to the floor when she switched on a light he had just turned off while she was getting breakfast.

Judge Clayton Parks, with a warning to all wife-beaters, ordered Johnson to pay his wife $50 for having struck her, and placed him under a 30-day suspended sentence.

WINS CASH PRIZE IN BOYS, GIRLS CONTEST

Miss Myrtle Rogalsdon of Brainerd, was one of the cash prize winners in the cream contest for Blue Valley Boys and Girls which closed recently. Close to six thousand boys and girls in seventeen states took part in the contest, and among these 1801 cash prizes were distributed. The grand prize in the contest went to Rena Proell, sixteen year old, Sauk Center, Minn., farm girl.

FEDERAL AGENTS SEIZE 250 GALLON STILL ON FARM

Jordan, Minn., Nov. 23.—(UP)—Federal agents early today seized a 250-gallon still on the Sam Bendick farm two miles south of here. John Carol, arrested during the raid, is said to have admitted ownership of the liquor making apparatus.

SEN. SHIPSTEAD OUT IN STATEMENT ON MEASURE

ASKS OPPONENTS TO SUPPORT IT
OR PRODUCE ONE MORE
EFFECTIVE

BILL VETOED LAST YEAR BY
COOLIDGE MAY AGAIN COME
BEFORE CONGRESS

Washington, Nov. 23.—(UP)—Senator Shipstead, farmer-labor, Minnesota, today challenged opponents of the McNary-Haugen farm bill either "to support it or produce one more effective."

Farm legislation "very likely" will come before congress in the shape of the bill vetoed last year by President Coolidge, Shipstead said.

"I do not consider it an adequate and complete remedy for economic conditions existing in the northwest, but I consider it a step in the right direction," he asserted.

Shipstead said he also favored increasing facilities for transportation on inland waterways, including the St. Lawrence ship canal; repeal of the national origins clause of the American act and limitation and definition of the jurisdiction of equity courts in the issuance of injunctions in labor cases.

Shipstead declined to comment on the suggestion that he may be the "pivot man" in the coming congress.

With 48 republicans and 47 democrats composing the membership—assuming Senators Vare and Smith are seated—a strict party vote on any measure would throw the lime-light on Shipstead; in the event he voted with the democrats the resulting tie would place Vice President Dawes in a commanding position. "I'll cross that bridge when I get to it," Shipstead said.

HAZEN RED WING, ABORIGINE OFFSPRING, TO WORK IN RED WING

Red Wing, Minn., Nov. 23.—(UP)—Hazen Red Wing, who claims to be the original full blooded grandson of "Chief Red Wing" has arrived here from Sioux Falls, and will be employed in a shoe company plant. He is 43 years old.

Hazen says there are several grandsons and great grandsons of Chief Red Wing, but that none of them are full blooded Sioux Indians. He has an uncle, Joseph Carroa, living at Sioux Falls, who possesses the original treaty that Chief Wakute Red Wing signed with the whites in 1853.

The treaty will be exhibited at the Goodhue County Historical society by Carrow soon.

Hazen saw service in the World war.

GRAND JURY MINUTES IN REMUS TRIAL

STATE INTENDS TO ATTACK TES-
TIMONY OF BOOTLEGGER'S
CHAUFFEUR

CLAIMED HE HAS GIVEN 3 VER-
SIONS OF SHOOTING AND
EVENTS PRECEDING

Court Room, Cincinnati, O., Nov. 23.—(UP)—Grand jury minutes were brought to court in the trial of George Remus today, the state intending to attack further the testimony of George Klug, chauffeur for the bootleg millionaire who shot and killed his wife, Imogene.

Walker K. Sibbald, assistant prosecutor, whose questioning of Klug was interrupted by adjournment yesterday after "Pay-off George" had been declared a hostile witness, said he would attempt to prove that Klug has given at least three versions of the events preceding and following the shooting.

Through Klug, who has been under bond of $10,000 as a material witness, the prosecution hopes to prove that Remus conspired with others to slay the wife who was attempting to divorce him.

St. Paul, Nov. 23.—(UP)—Mayors and officials of all municipalities on lines of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railroads have been asked to attend a mass meeting to protest the proposed unification of the two rail systems. A definite date for the meeting has not yet been set.

Announcement of the proposed mass session came following a civic session in the council chambers here last night. Rep. Melvin J. Maas, in the principal address, declared that consolidation of the two railroads would mean the end of St. Paul as the railroad and transportation capital of the northwest.

"Economies it is claimed would result by the merger would come largely from reduced payrolls," he said. "It has not been shown that and savings would be passed on to the public. The continuance was approved by U. S. Commissioner Needham Turnage upon motion of Neil Burkinshaw, assistant to U. S. District Attorney Peyton Gordon.

Clark is under $10,000 bond while H. Mason Day, another Sinclair lieutenant, is under $25,000 bond on a similar complaint.

SON ACCIDENTALLY KILLS HIS MOTHER WITH REVOLVER

Minneapolis, Nov. 23.—(UP)—Mrs. Mabel Simmonds was accidentally shot and killed last night when a revolver which her son was carrying to his father who intended to remove the cartridges, was discharged.

The son, Luverne, 15, found the revolver in a railroad yard several days ago. When he showed it to his father, Alexander Simmonds, the latter took it away from the boy, and placed it on a high closet shelf.

Last night the father said he would remove the cartridges from the weapon. Luverne went to get it. Unused to fire arms, the boy pulled the trigger. There was a shot. The bullet passed through a portier, and struck his mother in the chest. She was dead when a doctor arrived.

TWO TWIN CITY WEEKLY PAPERS ARE SILENCED

HENNEPIN COUNTY GRAND
JURY

HEARING ON INJUNCTION TO PROHIBIT PUBLICATION SET
FOR DECEMBER 12

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 23.—(UP)—Two Twin Cities weekly newspapers—the Twin City Reporter and the Saturday Press—were silenced temporarily late Tuesday by the Hennepin county grand jury.

A temporary restraining order prohibiting both papers from publishing any further editions pending a hearing December 12 on the application of a permanent injunction was issued at the recommendation of the inquisitorial body.

The temporary order was signed by Judge Mathias Baldwin. The publication of defamatory, scandalous and malicious material is charged against both newspapers, while the Twin City Reporter was declared to be an "obscene, lewd and lascivious newspaper."

Named as defendants in the case of the Saturday Press are Howard A. Guilford, J. M. Near and others, while the order against the Twin City Reporter names Edward Morgan and others.

PRES. COOLIDGE TO READ THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION

Washington, Nov. 23.—(UP)—President Coolidge will read his Thanksgiving proclamation Wednesday evening for a nation-wide radio broadcast it was announced late yesterday at the White House. More than 26 stations will broadcast the proclamation which will be read by Mr. Coolidge in his study at the White House.

A PROCLAMATION By the Governor of Minnesota

Three hundred twenty-six years ago, in November, 1601, the Pilgrim fathers at Plymouth sent four young men into the surrounding wilderness to secure game, and on their return held the first Thanksgiving. It was a day not of mere feasting, but also of devout thanks to Almighty God for the first harvest reaped in the New World.

Thus was inaugurated an occasion to become memorable in American history. During the Revolution Congress appointed days of thanksgiving. Following adoption of the federal constitution, Thanksgiving was observed in 1784 throughout the Colonies. In 1795, Washington proclaimed Thanksgiving for the advent of prosperity throughout the new republic. President Madison asked observance of the day for victory won in the war of 1812. President Lincoln proclaimed Thanksgiving in 1864 for the dawn of peace following the Civil War. Each successive president as well as the governors of the various states have since issued annual proclamations asking the people to give thanks for blessings received.

Hallowed with more than three centuries of American traditions, Thanksgiving comes to us with patriotic as well as religious significance. It is a day to renew our vows of loyalty to the principles the fathers established in the founding of our country. It is a day sacred to the memories of those who made the supreme sacrifice on many battlefields that we might continue a free and independent people. In their memory and in love of country, let the flag be displayed on all public buildings and elsewhere throughout the state. Let civic organizations, public officials and private citizens unite in patriotic observances.

It is a day to give thanks not only for material blessings, but for the immeasurable resources of our citizenship. In the accomplishment of American ideals is more national gain than in the wealth of harvests gleaned, metals mined, or in the riches of our industrial production.

With grateful hearts, let the people respond to the call to worship and give thanks to Him from Whom all blessings flow. Let vocations and business be laid aside and the day be given over to sacred and patriotic observances.

Now, therefore, I, Theodore Christianson, Governor of the State of Minnesota, do hereby designate and set apart THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1927, to be observed as Thanksgiving Day.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State of Minnesota, this 14th day of November, A. D. 1927.

THEODORE CHRISTIANSON.

KNOCKING DOWN HIS WIFE COST $50 COURT FINE

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 23.—(UP)—Knocking down one's wife costs $50 according to quotations in police court today.

Mrs. Christine Johnson testified her husband knocked her to the floor when she switched on a light he had just turned off while she was getting breakfast.

Judge Clayton Parks, with a warning to all wife-beaters, ordered Johnson to pay his wife $50 for having struck her, and placed him under a 30-day suspended sentence.

WINS CASH PRIZE IN BOYS, GIRLS CONTEST

Miss Myrtle Rognaldson of Brainerd, was one of the cash prize winners in the cream contest for Blue Valley Boys and Girls which closed recently. Close to six thousand boys and girls in seventeen states took part in the contest, and among these 1801 cash prizes were distributed. The grand prize in the contest went to Rena Proell, sixteen year old, Sauk Center, Minn., farm girl.

FEDERAL AGENTS SEIZE 250 GALLON STILL ON FARM

Jordan, Minn., Nov. 23.—(UP)—Federal agents early today seized a 250-gallon still on the Sam Bendick farm two miles south of here. John Carol, arrested during the raid, is said to have admitted ownership of the liquor making apparatus.

SEN. SHIPSTEAD OUT IN STATEMENT ON MEASURE

ASKS OPPONENTS TO SUPPORT IT
EFFECTIVE

BILL VETOED LAST YEAR BY
COOLIDGE MAY AGAIN COME
BEFORE CONGRESS

Washington, Nov. 23.—(UP)—Senator Shipstead, farmer-labor, Minnesota, today challenged opponents of the McNary-Haugen farm bill either "to support it or produce one more effective."

Farm legislation "very likely" will come before congress in the shape of the bill vetoed last year by President Coolidge, Shipstead said.

"I do not consider it an adequate and complete remedy for economic conditions existing in the northwest, but I consider it a step in the right direction," he asserted.

Shipstead said he also favored increasing facilities for transportation on inland waterways, including the St. Lawrence ship canal; repeal of the national origins clause of the American act and limitation and definition of the jurisdiction of equity courts in the issuance of injunctions in labor cases.

Shipstead declined to comment on the suggestion that he may be the "pivot man" in the coming congress.

With 48 republicans and 47 democrats composing the membership—assuming Senators Vare and Smith are seated—a strict party vote on any measure would throw the lime-light on Shipstead; in the event he voted with the democrats the resulting tie would place Vice President Dawes in a commanding position. "I'll cross that bridge when I get to it," Shipstead said.

HAZEN RED WING, ABORIGINE OFFSPRING, TO WORK IN RED WING

Red Wing, Minn., Nov. 23.—(UP)—Hazen Red Wing, who claims to be the original full blood great grandson of "Chief Red Wing" has arrived here from Sioux Falls, and will be employed in a shoe company plant. He is 43 years old.

Hazen says there are several grandsons and great grandsons of Chief Red Wing, but that none of them are full blooded Sioux Indians. He has an uncle, Joseph Carro, living at Sioux Falls, who possesses the original treaty that Chief Wakute Red Wing signed with the whites in 1853.

The treaty will be exhibited at the Goodhue County Historical society by Carrow soon.

Hazen saw service in the World war.

GRAND JURY MINUTES IN REMUS TRIAL

STATE INTENDS TO ATTACK TES-
TIMONY OF BOOTLEGGERS'
CHAUFFEUR

CLAIMED HE HAS GIVEN 3 VER-
SIONS OF SHOOTING AND
EVENTS PRECEDING

Court Room, Cincinnati, O., Nov. 23.—(UP)—Grand jury minutes were brought to court in the trial of George Remus today, the state intending to attack further the testimony of George Klug, chauffeur for the bootleg millionaire who shot and killed his wife, Imogene.

Walker K. Sibbald, assistant prosecutor, whose questioning of Klug was interrupted by adjournment yesterday after "Pay-off George" had been declared a hostile witness, said he would attempt to prove that Klug has given at least three versions of the events preceding and following the shooting.

Through Klug, who has been under bond of $10,000 as a material witness, the prosecution hopes to prove that Remus conspired with others to slay the wife who was attempting to divorce him.

Vol. 2 WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1927 No. 48

Tomorrow is Thanksgiving — the day of turkey, chanterries, pumpkin pie and indigestion.

We are somewhat in doubt about turkey! From all reports it is going to be some nice, tender sausage.

Nevertheless we are thankful for the sausage as well as many other things. And we don't like turkey, anyway.

And another thing — we are thankful that STANDARD continues to please our customers.

Have you your Christmas shopping done? Neither have we.

What has become of the old fashioned woman who never complained?

Another thing that puzzles every married man is why every bachelor isn't rich.

A dry dock is a physician who won't give out prescriptions.

"Where do you bathe?"

"In the spring." "I didn't ask you when, I asked you where."

By holding the hammer handle with both hands, you can avoid striking your thumb.

You can't qualify as a leading citizen until you get blamed for everything.

We got this from a trade magazine: About a year ago a middle western state repealed a law requiring one driving a horseless carriage when approaching town, to get out and phone ahead, so the people could get to their horses.

STANDARD continues to be the highest quality coal offered to the Brainerd trade.

A STUDY IN CONTRASTS Then—

"I'm sure there is a man following us."

"Heavens! What shall we do?"

"Let's scream for help."

Now—

"I'm sure there is a man following us."

"Heavens! What shall we do?"

"Let's match for him."

America would still be a great nation if no man survived except those who help with the dishes.

THE KNOT HOLE

Vol. 2 WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1927 No. 48

Tomorrow is Thanksgiving—the day of turkey, chanterelles, pumpkin pie and indigestion.

We are somewhat in doubt about turkey! From all reports it is going to be some nice, tender sausage.

Nevertheless we are thankful for the sausage as well as many other things. And we don't like turkey, anyway.

And another thing—we are thankful that STANDARD continues to please our customers.

Have you your Christmas shopping done? Neither have we.

What has become of the old fashioned woman who never complained?

Another thing that puzzles every married man is why every bachelor isn't rich.

A dry dock is a physician who won't give out prescriptions.

"Where do you bathe?"

"In the spring."

"I didn't ask you when, I asked you where."

By holding the hammer handle with both hands, you can avoid striking your thumb.

You can't qualify as a leading citizen until you get blamed for everything.

We got this from a trade magazine: About a year ago a middle western state repealed a law requiring one driving a horseless carriage when approaching town, to get out and phone ahead, so the people could get to their horses.

STANDARD continues to be the highest quality coal offered to the Brainerd trade.

A STUDY IN CONTRASTS

"I'm sure there is a man following us."

"Heavens! What shall we do?"

"Let's scream for help."

Now—

"I'm sure there is a man following us."

"Heavens! What shall we do?"

"Let's match for him."

America would still be a great nation if no man survived except those who help with the dishes.

POLICE RAID HOME OF I. H. AIKINS

West Brainerd Man Pleads Not Guilty in Municipal Court to Nuisance Charge

BAIL SET AT $500

Police Officers Assert They Found Liquor, Beer, and More Beer in the Making

Unless I. H. Aikins, of West Brainerd, can raise $500 by tomorrow he is "doomed" to spend Thanksgiving Day in the city jail.

Aikins was arraigned in municipal court this morning on the charge of maintaining a nuisance. He pleaded not guilty and Judge J. H. Warner set the trial for Friday morning with bail at $500. Aikins was at a loss to know just where to secure the bail money.

Chief of Police Thomas J. Templeton stated this morning that he believed the city has a clear case against Aikins in spite of the defendant's assertion that the liquor in question was brought by a man in a car to his house and was not intended for sale. He said he could produce the man.

The police last night raided the residence of Aikins. There they found, they stated, in one room one gallon of liquor, 200 bottles of beer, two eight gallon jars of beer in the making and 500 empty bottles.

The police seized some of the bottles for evidence and destroyed the others.

3 KILLED AS ENGINE HITS CAR AT CROSSING

Waseca, Minn., Nov. 23.—(UP)—Abrose Matz, 31, his son, Harold, 6, and Harriett Alland, 11, were killed late yesterday when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a locomotive at a crossing two miles north of here.

The victims were the only occupants of the machine.

Matz was driving his son and the neighbor girl to school.

A heavy fog apparently obscured their view of the engine which was running extra and alone.

The bodies of Matz and the girl were found near the crossing.

The boy was alive when taken from the front of the locomotive but died a few minutes after he was taken to Memorial hospital here.

"Barbed Wire" Pola's Greatest

From a standpoint of pure artistry and perfection of film technique, "Barbed Wire," Pola Negri's new starring vehicle, at the Lyceum theatre, has been called the outstanding motion picture of recent film history.

"Barbed Wire" wins this rank first and last because it portrays life as it is; because it is a story based on the most dramatic incident of all time, the world war; and because it is not a war picture in the sense most commonly accepted.

Mrs. A. M. Opsahl left this afternoon for Minneapolis where she will attend the wedding of a sister.

George D. LaBar returned from Staples where he went to attend the concert given by Mesdames Atherton, Crane and LaBar last night under the auspices of the First Episcopal church of that city. The ladies returned this noon. They report a big house and a very pleasant trip.

Mrs. Linnemann, mother of Henry and Herman Linnemann, returned to her home in St. Joe this afternoon.

F. E. Cawley, of Little Falls, who is a member of the firm of Minnesota Mill Co., was in the city yesterday and partially made arrangements to open a branch house here. The company are manufacturers of the well known "Gold Dust" brand of flour and this product of the mill will be distributed from this point, besides all kinds of other flour and feed. Mr. Cawley was busy yesterday afternoon looking for a location and expected to find one before he left for home.

Quite a number of machinists who were let out of the N. P. shops have gone to Two Harbors to work for the winter.

Joseph McGinnis surprised his brother, J. F. McGinnis, by walking in on him this morning. His home is in Caledonia.

A large number of deer came down from the east this afternoon. There was also one big moose that attracted considerable attention which was shot by F. Keating of St. Paul.

Saying "Thank You" Is A Pleasant Custom

Saying "thank you" is one of the simplest habits to form, and one that is more conducive to success in life than almost any other. The man who learns early in life that only part of his success is ever due to his own efforts, and that a large measure of credit belongs to his friends and associates, has learned one of the most valuable lessons Life has to offer.

Likewise the success of our store in this community is not due to our efforts alone. It is true we have tried hard to give you honest values—to render service with a smile and save you at least a few cents on every purchase, but we have much to say "thank you" for in the co-operation given us by our good friends and neighbors.

Over 300 years ago a sturdy band of Pilgrims set apart a special day in which to say "thank you." It is a custom we are glad to observe.

CROW WING COUNTY'S MASTER FARMER

AUGUST NELSON of Crow Wing county, was one of the group of master farmers honored at Minneapolis Tuesday evening. Host was "The Farmer" magazine of St. Paul. The whole plan was a very good idea, for it paid honor to the group who have made a signal success in agriculture.

Reading the history of each one of the group, farmers from three states, one finds that success followed intelligent effort. We are, of course, most interested in August Nelson, and of him we find this record:

August Nelson went into the cut-over section of Minnesota 27 years ago and carved his present farm out of the wilderness. He came over from Sweden in 1883. For 16 years he worked on farms, at odd jobs in various cities, and in the railroad shops at Brainerd. By 1899 he had saved $1,100 and that year bought a raw piece of land.

Today, at 67 years of age, he has a well developed, well equipped dairy farm of 80 acres, 50 acres of which is under the plow. He has followed this type of farming which seems best suited for the type of farm he owns. He has had to clear every foot of his land and build every building, many of native logs in the earlier years. His only income those first years was from cord wood which he hauled to town at $2.25 a cord, and wild hay. Now his principal income is from his cows, chickens and potatoes. His mature cows last year averaged 355 pounds of butterfat; his entire herd 300 pounds.

Mr. Nelson's six children have had high school educations or better. The oldest boy attended the Minnesota school of agriculture and is now in partnership with his father. Mr. Nelson is a trustee in his church, active in all community affairs and interested in co-operative marketing organizations.

CREDIT AND BUSINESS

MODERN business is based in great part upon credit. Big business and small business and all branches of business are conducted on a credit basis, says the St. Cloud Daily Times. It therefore follows that when credit fails, business will fail.

It is no business secret that the chain of credit extends all the way down from the source of raw materials to the ultimate consumer. Everybody uses credit. The manufacturer, the merchant, the farmer, the customer, all are borrowers.

Business benefits from credit, of course, or it would not grant it, but the public also reaps rich benefits from liberal credit. Automobiles, fine furniture, good clothing, radios, pianos, phonographs and many other quasi-luxuries are possible for most people only through credit.

If the credit method of merchandising is to endure those who receive the benefit from it must fulfill their contracts. That this has been done is evident from the fact that the great majority of people who buy on credit pay their debts promptly.

A cardinal virtue of the American people is the honesty they exhibit in their relations with their fellowmen. No greater insult can be heaped upon the American than to brand him "deadbeat."

THANKSGIVING

We have passed another year in the favor of the Lord. Crops have been fairly good, business and industry have flourished, the nation is at peace. Crow Wing county has been free of any visitations like heavy storms, drought, etc.

Moral and spiritual life have kept step with our material prosperity. First of all, we are thankful we live in the United States of America, and more especially in Minnesota and county of Crow Wing.

We have a good town in which good people live. We believe in our town and its citizens. Our countryside is flourishing. Our schools and churches are factors in our development. Our various civic institutions are basic aids contributing to the best in community life.

We are glad that one day has been set apart to pay our spiritual gratitude to the Giver of all good things. And while so doing, do not forget to remember some one by a gift of material things or a kindly word, one whom misfortune may be pressing down.

A 13 MONTHS CALENDAR

SOME fine day we shall have a 13 month year. Argument is being carried on to bring about this improvement in standardizing our months.

If established, all months would be equal, having the same recurring days. The day of the week would always indicate the monthly date—and conversely. Day and week could be recorded on clock and watch dials.

The complete four weeks would exactly quarter all months thus harmonizing wages with monthly rent, expenditures, etc. Pay day would come on the same date every month.

Each week-day would recur on its four fixed monthly dates, thus making production, payments, etc., more regular. Holidays would always occur on the same week day—many could be celebrated on Mondays thus giving workers a clear week-end. Month-ends and week-ends would coincide. It would eliminate much clerical work. Computation of interest would be simplified.

Easter could be fixed, with benefit to churches, schools and certain industries.

ISSUES AWAITING CONGRESS

SOME big issues await Congress when the session opens December 5.

These include tax reduction, farm relief, Boulder Dam, Muscle Shoals, railroad consolidation and flood control.

We, here in Minnesota, are deeply interested in tax reduction, farm relief and railroad consolidation. Many of the leaders, says the United Press, have hoped that a railroad consolidation bill will be passed. Senator Watson, chairman of the Senate interstate commerce committee, has indicated that he will accept a compromise on the pending measure whereby the roads will be given five years in which to effect voluntary consolidations. Several railroad executives have indicated they would accept such a proposal if they could be permitted to have some say about the matter at the end of the five year period.

THE DISPATCH notes with approval the snow clearing operations carried on in downtown business streets.

GANGDOM IN CHICAGO REPLIES IN BOMBS, BULLETS

DO NOT OBSERVE ULTIMATUM OF THE CHICAGO POLICE

POLICE SERGEANT LYNCH CRITICALLY WOUNDED IN EXCHANGE OF FIRE

Chicago, Nov. 23.—(U.P.) Gangdom replied with bombs and bullets today to the Chicago police ultimatum that the gunmen must keep the peace.

Police Sergeant Tom Lynch was critically wounded in a running battle with an automobile load of gangsters.

A few hours earlier a bomb had blown out the front of a west side resort of the Bertse-Skidmore-Zata vice syndicate, with which Joseph Aiello and his brothers are allied.

The bombing apparently was a warning by the cohorts of Scarface Al Caponi that Aiello's attempt to usurp the underworld throne of Caponi would meet the same answer that previous revolts against the powerful gangster chief have received—death to the upstarts.

Following the shooting of Lynch, scores of police motor squads were sent cruising about the areas where gangsters congregate.

Lynch was one of five policemen in an automobile pursuing the gangster car. The police car was making about 75 miles an hour, his companion said, and occupants of both machines were firing volley after volley.

Lynch was beside the driver. If the bullet had hit him instead of Lynch, all five of the police undoubtedly would have been killed.

Today's events opened the active attempt of Caponi to defend his power among the gangs.

Caponi and his cohorts had been curiously calm for weeks while rival gangs openly set about to force the overlord of gambling to yield his power. As a result, reports circulated that Caponi had decided to give up after defending his position against bitter attacks for many years.

But today it was evident that "Scarface Al," who has killed or driven away all who questioned his power, was not ready to retire.

Joseph Aiello frankly was ready to quit. While he was held in jail yesterday in connection with a plot to assassinate Caponi and Tony Lombardo, an ally, he begged Caponi gangsters in an adjoining cell to give him 15 days to get out of the city. The Caponi men laughed at his police guard to protect him and his pleas, and when Aiello was released a few hours later he begged for a wife and child, who met him at the jail.

He was given the guard because of his wife and child, but police frankly warned him the only way they could protect him in the future would be to escort him to New York and put him aboard a ship for his native Sicily.

The Aiello family's enterprises—bakeries, grocery stores and other similar businesses—were closed last night although usually they remain open until late.

They were beaten and they knew it. Unless Caponi, who has never shown mercy, grows merciful, they will go the way of the Genna brothers and the other gangsters who have sought Caponi's power.

Several Aiello aides were to appear today for hearings in connection with the plot against Caponi and Lombardo. Caponi adherents arrested in the police attempt to force a peace pact also may appear today.

A police tact great precautions to prevent a clash of the gangs in the court room or outside the criminal courts building.

ARMORED CAR CARRYING FORTUNE CATCHES ON FIRE

New York, Nov. 23.—(U.P.)—An armored car, carrying between $300,000 and $400,000 in bills from Brooklyn banks to banks in Manhattan, caught fire at the entrance to the Brooklyn bridge on the Brooklyn side of the river today.

The money, in nine sacks, was removed and surrounded by 30 policemen while the fire was put out.

CROW WING COUNTY'S MASTER FARMER

AUGUST NELSON of Crow Wing county, was one of the group of master farmers honored at Minneapolis Tuesday evening. Host was "The Farmer" magazine of St. Paul. The whole plan was a very good idea, for it paid honor to the group who have made a signal success in agriculture.

Reading the history of each one of the group, farmers from three states, one finds that success followed intelligent effort. We are, of course, most interested in August Nelson, and of him we find this record:

August Nelson went into the cut-over section of Minnesota 27 years ago and carved his present farm out of the wilderness. He came over from Sweden in 1883. For 16 years he worked on farms, at odd jobs in various cities, and in the railroad shops at Brainerd. By 1899 he had saved $1,100 and that year bought a raw piece of land.

Today, at 67 years of age, he has a well developed, well equipped dairy farm of 80 acres, 50 acres of which is under the plow. He has followed this type of farming which seems best suited for the type of farm he owns. He has had to clear every foot of his land and build every building, many of native logs in the earlier years. His only income those first years was from cord wood which he hauled to town at $2.25 a cord, and wild hay. Now his principal income is from his cows, chickens and potatoes. His mature cows last year averaged 355 pounds of butterfat; his entire herd 300 pounds.

Mr. Nelson's six children have had high school educations or better. The oldest boy attended the Minnesota school of agriculture and is now in partnership with his father. Mr. Nelson is a trustee in his church, active in all community affairs and interested in co-operative marketing organizations.

CREDIT AND BUSINESS

MODERN business is based in great part upon credit. Big business and small business and all branches of business are conducted on a credit basis, says the St. Cloud Daily Times. It therefore follows that when credit fails, business will fail.

It is no business secret that the chain of credit extends all the way down from the source of raw materials to the ultimate consumer. Everybody uses credit. The manufacturer, the merchant, the farmer, the customer, all are borrowers.

Business benefits from credit, of course, or it would not grant it, but the public also reaps rich benefits from liberal credit. Automobiles, fine furniture, good clothing, radios, pianos, phonographs and many other quasi-luxuries are possible for most people only through credit.

If the credit method of merchandising is to endure those who receive the benefit from it must fulfill their contracts. That this has been done is evident from the fact that the great majority of people who buy on credit pay their debts promptly.

A cardinal virtue of the American people is the honesty they exhibit in their relations with their fellowmen. No greater insult can be heaped upon the American than to brand him "deadbeat."

THANKSGIVING

We have passed another year in the favor of the Lord. Crops have been fairly good, business and industry have flourished, the nation is at peace. Crow Wing county has been free of any visitations like heavy storms, drought, etc.

Moral and spiritual life have kept step with our material prosperity. First of all, we are thankful we live in the United States of America, and more especially in Minnesota and county of Crow Wing.

We have a good town in which good people live. We believe in our town and its citizens. Our countryside is flourishing. Our schools and churches are factors in our development. Our various civic institutions are basic aids contributing to the best in community life.

We are glad that one day has been set apart to pay our spiritual gratitude to the Giver of all good things. And while so doing, do not forget to remember some one by a gift of material things or a kindly word, one whom misfortune may be pressing down.

A 13 MONTHS CALENDAR

SOME fine day we shall have a 13 month year. Argument is being carried on to bring about this improvement in standardizing our months.

If established, all months would be equal, having the same recurring days. The day of the week would always indicate the monthly date—and conversely. Day and week could be recorded on clock and watch dials.

The complete four weeks would exactly quarter all months thus harmonizing wages with monthly rent, expenditures, etc. Pay day would come on the same date every month.

Each week-day would recur on its four fixed monthly dates, thus making production, payments, etc., more regular. Holidays would always occur on the same week-day—many could be celebrated on Mondays thus giving workers a clear week-end. Month-ends and week-ends would coincide. It would eliminate much clerical work. Computation of interest would be simplified.

Easter could be fixed, with benefit to churches, schools and certain industries.

ISSUES AWAITING CONGRESS

SOME big issues await Congress when the session opens December 5.

These include tax reduction, farm relief, Boulder Dam, Muscle Shoals, railroad consolidation and flood control.

We, here in Minnesota, are deeply interested in tax reduction, farm relief and railroad consolidation. Many of the leaders, says the United Press, have hoped that a railroad consolidation bill will be passed. Senator Watson, chairman of the Senate interstate commerce committee, has indicated that he will accept a compromise on the pending measure whereby the roads will be given five years in which to effect voluntary consolidations. Several railroad executives have indicated they would accept such a proposal if they could be permitted to have some say about the matter at the end of the five year period.

MINNESOTA ON THREE UNITED PRESS MYTHICAL ELEVENS

JOESTING, GARY, ALMQUIST PICKED FOR FIRST TEAM

HANSON, AS MINNESOTA RIGHT TACKLE, ON SECOND SQUAD

HAYCRAFT, AS MINNESOTA LEFT END, ON THE THIRD TEAM

By CLARK B. KELSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright, 1927, by United Press)
Chicago, Nov. 23. — Six western conference schools have contributed players to the 1927 United Press all-conference selection. These players, chosen by the writer in collaboration with a dozen football writers in the Big Ten territory, were picked on the basis of their value to their team.

The smashing Gophers and the speedy Wolverines place three men each on the mythical eleven. Illinois, champion of the Big Ten, because of all-around strength, wins two places. Ohio State, Northwestern and Chicago each has a single contribution to the eleven.

Linemen were harder to allot positions than the backfield players, because of the abundant supply of capable forwards. Opinion varied widely in the line selection.

Herb Joesting, big Minnesota fullback, and Benny Oosterbaan, Michigan's pass-snaring end, were chosen for their positions by every football critic who voted. The Juggernaut Joesting, because of his ability as a leader and because of his brilliant record, is named captain of the eleven.

With Oosterbaan at end is paired Waldo Fisher of Northwestern, who has played an important part in most Wildcat advances in the past three years. Like Oosterbaan, he is a brilliant pass receiver and is down the field like a streak under punts. Garland Grange, sophomore brother of the famous "Red," was another outstanding end, while Don Cameron and Kenneth Hayercraft of Minnesota played well during the season, as did Robin Bell of Ohio State.

The tackle positions were awarded to Mike Gary of Minnesota and Raskowski of Ohio State, who slashed open the holes through which ball carriers made substantial gains all season long. Capt. Emmerson Nelson of Iowa, Hanson of Minnesota and Butch Nowack of Illinois were other fine tackles.

There were many good guards in the Big Ten. Baer of Michigan undoubtedly earns one assignment, while Gibson of Minnesota, Prentice of Purdue, Trobaugh of Indiana and Dart of Northwestern were big factors in their teams' showings.

But because Capt. Bob Reitsch of Illinois and Capt. Ken Rouse of Chicago were playing in the same year at the same center position one must be given a guard job. Rouse is assigned that place, for Reitsch earned his first all-conference center honor last year. And you can't keep either one off an all-star Big Ten team.

Randolph of Indiana and Skeeter Wyman of Northwestern were the other star centers. Randolph is given preference because Wyman was declared ineligible in mid-season.

Three of the backfield positions were "naturals." Joesting and Shorty Almquist of Minnesota drew almost unanimous votes for fullback and quarterback berths. "Kalamazoo Lou" Gilbert was nearly as popular for a halfback assignment.

Judd Timm, the five-yard-average line-smashing, end-running Illinois back, Capt. Toad Crofoot of Wisconsin, Cotton Wilcox of Purdue, Armit of Iowa and Bennett of Indiana were those named for the post, but Timm clinched the honor in the Ohio State game last Saturday, while Crofoot was failing to gain against Chicago.

Notre Dame is not a member of the conference, so its star players cannot be included on the mythical teams.

JOE BUSH IN BEST RECORD

WORKED IN SIX GAMES — WON FOUR AND LOST TWO

By BERT M. DENBY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Chicago, Ill., Nov. 23.—(UP)—Some seventy 300 hitters played havoc with the pitching averages in the American Association during the 1927 season, and few pitchers were able to show anything good in the way of an earned run average.

Joe Bush of Toledo produced the best record—2.65 earned runs per game and that is a fair record—but Joe received credit for working in only six games, winning four and losing two.

Jimmy Zinn of Kansas City was second with 3.08 and he is the real leader as a result of working in 45 games. He did not have the best won and lost percentage but was well up in the list with 24 won and 12 lost.

From Zinn's 3.08 the figure jumps to 3.35 among the regulars. Bets of St. Paul, with 18 won and 13 lost, turned in this figure.

Long Tom Sheehan, Kansas City, who always has been a big winner in minor league baseball but for some reason has failed to make an impressive showing in the majors, won the most games—26. However he lost half that number and wound up the season with a percentage of .667.

The leader from a standpoint of won and lost percentage is Orwoll, Milwaukee, who turned in 17 victories against six defeats, for a percentage of .739.

Palmero of Toledo was a close second with .737 as a result of 14 victories and five defeats.

The records pretest some queer illustrations of the uncertainties of baseball. For instance, of the seventeen pitchers who led from an earned run standpoint, six lost more games than they won—certainly definite proof that the won and lost column does not give the true effectiveness of a pitcher.

Malone, Minneapolis, was the 394.

TENNIS CHAMPIONS RECEIVE MEDALS FOR YEAR'S PLAY

PRESENTED AT LAST EVENING'S MEETING OF THE BRAINERD TENNIS ASSOCIATION

MEMBERS DISCUSS ADVISABILITY OF CONSTRUCTING ANOTHER COURT FOR NEXT YEAR

Members of the Brainerd Tennis Association gathered last evening in the Chamber of Commerce rooms for their last activity of the season. Presentation of medals donated by E. A. Page constituted the major event of importance of the evening. Those who received medals were Don Geist and John Chadbourne, junior doubles champions; Dr. Melvin Carlson, senior singles champion; Dr. M. Carlson, Wallace Anderson and L. Ericsson, in the senior doubles group.

All felt that the past season had been an active one for tennis enthusiasts in this city. Due to the popularity of the tennis courts, the plan was discussed to construct one additional court in Gregory Park. This matter however will come up for further consideration.

The next meeting will take place in March at which time plans will be formulated for the 1928 season.

STATE AMATEUR HOCKEY TOURNEY

Hibbing, Minn., Nov. 23.—(UP)—The State Amateur Hockey association tournament will be held at Hibbing February 24, 25 and 26, it was announced today.

For the past week now the skating rink has presented a spot of fascinating industry. Strong men have put up the lamp posts, shovelled the snow in heaps on the banks and erected a neat fence to enclose the hockey arena.

The warming house has been put in fine shape for the season. It is likely that sprinkling will start within the next few days.

STANFORD TO PLAY PITT NEW YEAR'S DAY AT PASADENA

Palo Alto, Calif., Nov. 22.—(UP)—The University of Pittsburgh has been chosen as the football opponent for the Stanford university team in the annual New Year's game at Pasadena.

The announcement confirming information carried by the United Press Saturday was made public today following a meeting of the Stanford faculty athletic committee and the athletic board of control.

Offers had been tendered the United States Military Academy and the United States Naval Academy before Pittsburgh accepted.

The game will mark the second time Stanford and Pittsburgh have met on the gridiron. In December, 1922, the eastern team met and defeated Stanford in the Palo Alto stadium.

TWO TO ONE OFFERED ON ARMY TO WIN GAME

THE ARMY MADE ITS BEST SHOWING IN DEFEATING NOTRE DAME

AND THE IRISH, PREVIOUSLY, HAD BEATEN THE NAVY

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Nov. 23.—"Two to one offered on the Army; two and a half and better wanted"—quotation from the betting market—reflects the respect with which the betting fellows are holding the Midshipmen from Annapolis as they approach the annual inter-service game with the West Point Cadets here Saturday.

In more classic language, Tad Jones, coach of the Yale eleven said last week before the Harvard game: "Anyone is a sucker to bet two to one on any football team."

His Yale team was considered such a gambler's delight against a poor Harvard team that bets of four to one were offered that Yale would win. Yale did win, it will be recalled, but Yale didn't enjoy any carnival in the winning.

Considering that some critics think the Army to be a better team at the termination of the season than Yale, the betting shows that the Navy has the boys in a slight doubt at least.

Rating the strength of the Army, it has to be admitted that the great Yale team, defeated only by what must be a great Georgia team, beat the Army. The margin of the Yale victory over the Army was twelve inches, however, and one foot isn't a wide distance of superiority.

If Cadet Murrell had been able to negotiate those twelve inches, Army would have been the ranking candidate for the eastern championship.

Army made its best showing of the season in defeating a Notre Dame team that up to that time had carried faithfully all the traditions of a Rockne team. In that victory the Army earned traditional statistical prestige because Notre Dame previously had beaten the Navy.

Navy followers, however, defend the season's record of the Midshipmen on the plea that it was a green team that had to be taught in fire. There is something also in the argument offered that Navy scored two touchdowns against Michigan and that the western conference teams didn't do that well.

$890,000 HOSPITAL TO BE BUILT AT U OF MINNESOTA

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 23.—(UP)—Construction will be started about Feb. 1 of the Eustis hospital to cost $890,000 at the University of Minnesota, it was announced late yesterday by P. H. Fesler, superintendent of the Minnesota General hospital, who said plans for the new building will be complete within a few days.

The new hospital will be on a site adjoining Elliott Memorial hospital, and be a member of the growing group of medical units on the University campus.

It was made possible by a gift of $250,000 from William Henry Eustis, former Minneapolis mayor, to provide the best possible hospital facilities for the proper care of crippled children.

WHY ALL-AMERICA?

The last white chalk-line glistens just ahead;
Another football season passes on;
The last long forward pass will soon be sped;
And everything would be for the best in this best of all possible worlds if only we did not have to become embroiled in the annual post-season farcical, fruitless arguments over the "All-America" team.

Now in the days when the late Walter Camp, father of football, was recognized as the namer of the official "All-America" team, the matter was simplicity itself. In those days, you could take your "All-America" or leave it alone. The names of anywhere from three to seven or eight Yale men adorned the roster of the "first team," and nobody cared much, one way or another.

Nowadays, there are a great many people who care a great deal, which is why it is unfortunate, to my mind, that numerous self-appointed successors to Walter Camp continue to attempt, with ludicrous gravity, to name "All-America" elevens. It can't be done. A consensus means no more than the studied opinion of an expert. With football, and cracking good football, too, played in every corner of the land, how is anyone to say who are the eleven best players?

In the days when Walter Camp made his annual selections, inter-sectional games were infrequent. Football men in the South and Middle West and on the Pacific Coast were content to take it for granted that Camp must be right, and that most of the game's giants wore blue jerseys and posed on the famous senior fence beneath the graceful elms of New Haven.

And if Harvard and Princeton, Pennsylvania and Cornell, with maybe now and then Chicago or Michigan, had not enrolled all the really good football players in the land—well, it would just have been the height of lese majesty to say so.

Nowadays we know that the light of many a Coy and Heston was hidden beneath a bushel in what then constituted the gridiron hinterland. Today we discover and recognize these youngsters who run and kick and pass like Jim Thorpe himself, for all their alma mater hasn't as yet afforded a $10,000,000 stadium.

It was impossible, this season, to say that any one team was the best in the country.

When the class of the game is so wide-spread (and one man can watch no more than one game each Saturday) it seems to me that attempting to establish some standard whereby eleven players can be declared the best is an unfortunate form of self-indulgence.

In a few days, we will be selecting an "All-America" eleven, and upholding its merits to anyone who will listen.

MINNESOTA ON THREE UNITED PRESS MYTHICAL ELEVENS

JOESTING, GARY, ALMQUIST PICKED FOR FIRST TEAM

HANSON, AS MINNESOTA RIGHT TACKLE, ON SECOND SQUAD

HAYCRAFT, AS MINNESOTA LEFT END, ON THE THIRD TEAM

By CLARK B. KELSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright, 1927, by United Press)
Chicago, Nov. 23. — Six western conference schools have contributed players to the 1927 United Press all-conference selection. These players, chosen by the writer in collaboration with a dozen football writers in the Big Ten territory, were picked on the basis of their value to their team.

The smashing Gophers and the speedy Wolverines place three men each on the mythical eleven. Illinois, champion of the Big Ten, because of all-around strength, wins two places. Ohio State, Northwestern and Chicago each has a single contribution to the eleven.

Linemen were harder to allot positions than the backfield players, because of the abundant supply of capable forwards. Opinion varied widely in the line selection.

Herb Joesting, big Minnesota full-back, and Benny Oosterbaan, Michigan's pass-sharing end, were chosen for their positions by every football critic who voted. The Juggernaut Joesting, because of his ability as a leader and because of his brilliant record, is named captain of the eleven.

With Oosterbaan at end is paired Waldo Fisher of Northwestern, who has played an important part in most Wildcat advances in the past three years. Like Oosterbaan, he is a brilliant pass receiver and is down the field like a streak under punts. Garland Grange, sophomore brother of the famous "Red," was another outstanding end, while Don Cameron and Kenneth Haycraft of Minnesota played well during the season, as did Robin Bell of Ohio State.

The tackle positions were awarded to Mike Gary of Minnesota and Raskowski of Ohio State, who slashed open the holes through which ball carriers made substantial gains all season long. Capt. Emmerson Nelson of Iowa, Hanson of Minnesota and Butch Nowack of Illinois were other fine tackles.

HUPP BRINGS OUT ENTIRELY NEW SIX

Officials Proud of Beauty and Style:
See Achievement of New Vogue
for Entire Industry

NOW DISPLAYED AT LIVELY'S

Not Merely a New Model, But Wholly
New Car of Compelling Beauty,
it is Pointed Out

New throughout, and totally different in body appearance, style and lines from any previous motor car ever built by that organization, Hupmobile's new 1928 Six, recently announced, went on display at Lively Auto Co., local Hupmobile dealer, for the first time today. The car is the companion to the distinguished Hupmobile Eight.

Among the finest of the new cars to be presented by motor manufacturers this year, this new 1928 Hupmobile Six reveals imposing and far-reaching improvements. In its appeal to the eye the new car differs vastly from anything that has preceded it. A new kinetic beauty has been fashioned into it, made possible, it is pointed out, because the whole car was designed as a single unit to a design harmony that compelled every part to be balanced with every other.

Special attention has been given to seating in every model to insure utmost comfort to each occupant. Particular attention is called to the effective way the shoulders and lower spine fit into the seat backs, and the seats themselves.

Upholstery and side walls in the sedan models are of finest mohair, in pleasing color combinations.

The new 1928 Hupmobile is strikingly low. A man of above average height, approaching from the curb side of a parked sedan, can actually look across its top. That same man, owing to scientific body design, will be amazed to discover that head and leg room are both generous.

Use of chromium as plating for all exterior bright work is an exclusive feature, brand new to the automobile industry.

In addition to the brand new body models, many chassis improvements have also been made over the previous series Hupmobile Six. The engine is larger—now being 3 1/4 inch bore by 4 1/4 inch stroke—and consequently more powerful. It accelerates even faster in every gear and combines with it greater hill climbing ability.

Cylinder heads used on the new 1928 Six incorporate the latest advantages relative to high compression heads.

All working mechanisms have also been built to handle the increased power and speeds that these revolutionary improvements make possible.

Four-wheel brakes are of a type new to the entire industry—Hupmobile-Midland (Steeldraulic). They are internal expanding, completely protected from water and dirt.

The dry-disc single-plate clutch has a flexible central member which cushions shocks either from the engine or rear axle, obviating the usual rattle generally encountered by motor cars when operated at high speeds.

Brief specifications of this new 1928 model include the new type, narrow gauge rim steering wheel, quickly adjustable to the most convenient positions for various-sized persons; four point engine suspension; crankshaft tested both for static and dynamic balance and fitted with vibration damper; pistons balanced in sets to limits of 1-6 ounce; exhaust valves of silchrome steel; heavy, rigid, double-drop frame of seven cross members, with engine supports furnishing two additional ones; full pressure lubrication to all main and connecting rod bearings and to piston pins, with oil filter; air cleaner and carburetor of new plain-tube type; large capacity radiator, with water pump, driven from crankshaft; oversize starting motor with exceptionally high torque for long life; generator driven by silent chain, easily adjusted; threaded rubber insulation battery of 160 ampere hour capacity; indirect dash lighting; special electrical lock on ignition system; steering of cam and lever type, easily adjustable, with spark, throttle and light control from center of wheel.

DEPENDENCE upon the horse and buggy limited the social radius in grandfather's time. A trip of 10 miles and back with a few hours in between for visiting was considered quite an undertaking for one day. Now almost anyone, anywhere in the United States and many persons in England, Scotland and Wales are within reach from your telephone. Modern methods of transportation and communication, such as the automobile and the telephone, have wiped out the social frontiers of yesterday and made us a nation of neighbors. Although separated by hundreds, and even thousands of miles, Thanksgiving or any other time finds us as close to each other as we are to our telephones.

HUPP BRINGS OUT ENTIRELY NEW SIX

Officials Proud of Beauty and Style:
See Achievement of New Vogue
for Entire Industry

NOW DISPLAYED AT LIVELY'S

Not Merely a New Model, But Wholly
New Car of Compelling Beauty,
it is Pointed Out

New throughout, and totally different in body appearance, style and lines from any previous motor car ever built by that organization. Hupmobile's new 1928 Six, recently announced, went on display at Lively Auto Co., local Hupmobile dealer, for the first time today. The car is the companion to the distinguished Hupmobile Eight.

Among the finest of the new cars to be presented by motor manufacturers this year, this new 1928 Hupmobile Six reveals imposing and far-reaching improvements. In its appeal to the eye the new car differs vastly from anything that has preceded it. A new kinetic beauty has been fashioned into it, made possible, it is pointed out, because the whole car was designed as a single unit to a design harmony that compelled every part to be balanced with every other.

Special attention has been given to seating in every model to insure utmost comfort to each occupant. Particular attention is called to the effective way the shoulders and lower spine fit into the seat backs, and the seats themselves.

Upholstery and side walls in the sedan models are of finest mohair, in pleasing color combinations.

The new 1928 Hupmobile is strikingly low. A man of above average height, approaching from the curb side of a parked sedan, can actually look across its top. That same man, owing to scientific body designing, will be amazed to discover that head and leg room are both generous.

Use of chromium as plating for all exterior bright work is an exclusive feature, brand new to the automobile industry.

In addition to the brand new body models, many chassis improvements have also been made over the previous series Hupmobile Six. The engine is larger—now being 3 1/4 inch bore by 4 1/4 inch stroke—and consequently more powerful. It accelerates even faster in every gear and combines with it greater hill climbing ability.

Cylinder heads used on the new 1928 Six incorporate the latest advantages relative to high compression heads.

All working mechanisms have also been built to handle the increased power and speeds that these revolutionary improvements make possible.

Four-wheel brakes are of a type new to the entire industry—Hupmobile-Midland (Steeldraulic). They are internal expanding, completely protected from water and dirt.

The dry-disc single-plate clutch has a flexible central member which cushions shocks either from the engine or rear axle, obviating the usual rattle generally encountered by motor cars when operated at high speeds.

Brief specifications of this new 1928 model include the new type, narrow gauge rim steering wheel, quickly adjustable to the most convenient positions for various-sized persons; four point engine suspension; crankshaft tested both for static and dynamic balance and fitted with vibration damper; pistons balanced in sets to limits of 1-6 ounce; exhaust valves of silchrome steel; heavy, rigid, double-drop frame of seven cross members, with engine supports furnishing two additional ones; full pressure lubrication to all main and connecting rod bearings and to piston pins, with oil filter; air cleaner and carburetor of new plain-tube type; large capacity radiator, with water pump, driven

THANKSGIVING IN CHURCHES OF BRAINERD

Special Union Thanksgiving Services
Arranged by Brainerd Ministerial Association

A Holiday When Civil Authorities
Stress Religious Observance of the Day

The special Union Thanksgiving services that have been arranged by the Brainerd Ministerial Association will be held tomorrow Thanksgiving day in the various parts of the city, in the three churches, as has been previously announced.

According to the usual custom, the president of the United States and the governor of the state of Minnesota have asked for a religious observance of this special and particularly appropriate national holiday. It is the one and only holiday that comes around each year when the civil authorities stress the religious observance of the day. This is no doubt because of the fact that the very institution of Thanksgiving day, over three hundred years ago, was for religious purposes and there has always been the effort made to adhere to its original purposes.

The Brainerd Ministerial Association have arranged for its special union services as follows: at 10:30 A. M. at the Swedish Baptist church, Tenth and Oak streets, with Rev. L. F. Strothman as the preacher, at 7:30 P. M. at the Evangelical church, 4th Ave. and C. street, Northeast, and also at 7:30 P. M. at St. Paul's Episcopal church, Seventh and Juniper streets with Rev. Seth Jacobson as the preacher. There will be special music at these various union services Thanksgiving day.

The following is the program for the service that will be held at St. Paul's Episcopal church: The Processional hymn, "Come ye thankful people, come," by the choir and congregation. Immediately following the Processional, the Rev. Morris L. Evers, pastor of the First Methodist church, will lead in reciting the Apostles' Creed. The evening prayer will be offered by Rev. H. F. Damon, pastor of the First Baptist church. This will be followed by the anthem of the boys choir, "O God of Love" by Baker with Junior Miller as the soloist. The scripture lesson will be read by L. L. Peterson, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. Following this will be chanted by the full choir "The Magnificat" by Kettle Armes. The announcements will be made by Rev. N. P. Olmsted, pastor of the Congregational church and president of the Brainerd Ministerial Association.

The congregation and choir will sing the Thanksgiving hymn "Now Thank We All Our God." The sermon will be preached by Rev. Seth Jacobson, pastor of the Swedish Baptist church. The offertory anthem will be sung by the adult choir, "Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem" by Mauder. The benediction will be pronounced by Rev. A. G. Patterson, pastor of the Presbyterian church. The service will close with the recessional hymn, by choir and congregation, will be "America the Beautiful" by Ward. The organ postlude will be "The Hallelujah Chorus" by Handel.

Union Young Peoples Thanksgiving Service

The Union Young Peoples Thanksgiving service will be held at the Swedish Baptist church at 7 A. M. Thursday, followed by Thanksgiving fellowship and a breakfast served. This is the program:

7 A. M.—Breakfast.
7:30 A. M.—Program with three minute speakers.

Thanksgiving prayer—Rev. N. P. Olmsted.

Zion Evangelical—Irene Krueger, Presbyterian—Frances Lawson, Methodist—Shirley Peterson, Congregational—Carl Zapffe, Jr., Baptist—Hope Thabes, Swedish Baptist—Lily Olson, Episcopal—John Ellison, Swedish Bethany—Albert C. Anderson.

Talk by Rev. Seth Jacobson, Swedish Baptist church.

Young People's Social

The Young People's League of the Evangelical church will meet for their Thanksgiving social on Friday evening in the church parlors.

Invitations have been given out and a large crowd is expected to attend.

The following program will be carried out:

8-8:15—Opening gathering.

8:15-8:30—Devotions and announcements.

8:30-10—Games, etc.

10-10:30—Refreshments.

10:30—Distribution of souvenirs and dismissal.

As the committee in charge provides all the refreshments, a free will offering will be taken to cover the expense of the same.

Bethlehem Lutheran Church

Thanksgiving services will be held as usual tomorrow at 10:30. The services will be in the Swedish language. In the evening the Missionary society will hold its regular monthly meeting.

Full Gospel Assembly

Thanksgiving service at Full Gospel assembly postponed until 8 P. M. Thursday evening. E. F. Johnson.

Bethlehem Lutheran Church

Special Thanksgiving Day services will be held in English at the Bethlehem Lutheran church, South Seventh street in the evening at 8 o'clock. Offering will be tendered to the pension fund of the Lutheran Free church.

In the morning at 11 o'clock, Thanksgiving Day services will be held in English at the Bethel church, South Long Lake. The offering will go to the pension fund.

FOOD MEANS CHEER FOR 64 FAMILIES

Forty-Four Baskets Contributed by Schools to Brighten Thanksgiving

DISTRIBUTED LAST NIGHT

Elks Give Out 20 Baskets; Day Will be One of Great Blessings

Forty-four baskets of food contributed by school children in this city and distributed by members of P. T. A.'s throughout the city brought cheer to homes in Brainerd which otherwise would celebrate a very meager Thanksgiving.

The Parent Teacher Associations contributed money to purchase half a cow which will be used for meat on Thanksgiving Day.

The baskets were taken to the homes where needed last night.

They were heaped high with vegetables, fruits, cakes, puddings, slices of turkey, chicken and goose to assist in making Thursday a day of Thanksgiving for all.

For the past week, baskets had been placed at the various schools and the students had the privilege of giving anything they desired.

The Elks lodge of Brainerd will make the day a happier one for 20 families here by giving out baskets. The county will concentrate on Christmas donations instead of Thanksgiving this year although many of county residents have signified their intentions of assisting in making the day a joyful one throughout the entire county.

PLAN "Y." IMPROVEMENT

First Step Taken in Placing of Drapes on the Windows

The first step in the plan of improving the appearance of the Y. M. C. A. inside and out has been taken. In the placing of drapes on the windows. This gives a decided improvement and a more home like atmosphere, the mothers of some of the boys who attend the Y. and the Hi-Y club were the donors of the material to the Y. Mrs. Olive Peterson supervised the work of making the drapes and getting them ready for use.

The N. P. expects to make repairs and do some painting soon, and with the full time janitor on duty, the building will be kept in good serviceable condition, as well as being attractive to the boys.

FOOD MEANS CHEER FOR 64 FAMILIES

Forty-Four Baskets Contributed by Schools to Brighten Thanksgiving

DISTRIBUTED LAST NIGHT

Elks Give Out 20 Baskets; Day Will be One of Great Blessings

Forty-four baskets of food contributed by school children in this city and distributed by members of P. T. A.'s throughout the city brought cheer to homes in Brainerd which otherwise would celebrate a very meager Thanksgiving.

The Parent Teacher Associations contributed money to purchase half a cow which will be used for meat on Thanksgiving Day.

The baskets were taken to the homes where needed last night. They were heaped high with vegetables, fruits, cakes, puddings, slices of turkey, chicken and goose to assist in making Thursday a day of Thanksgiving for all.

For the past week, baskets had been placed at the various schools and the students had the privilege of giving anything they desired.

The Elks lodge of Brainerd will make the day a happier one for 20 families here by giving out baskets. The county will concentrate on Christmas donations instead of Thanksgiving this year although many of county residents have signified their intentions of assisting in making the day a joyful one throughout the entire county.

PLAN "Y." IMPROVEMENT

First Step Taken in Placing of Drapes on the Windows

The first step in the plan of improving the appearance of the Y. M. C. A. inside and out has been taken. In the placing of drapes on the windows. This gives a decided improvement and a more home like atmosphere, the mothers of some of the boys who attend the Y. and the Hi-Y club were the donors of the material to the Y. Mrs. Olive Peterson supervised the work of making the drapes and getting them ready for use.

The N. P. expects to make repairs and do some painting soon, and with the fall time janitor on duty, the building will be kept in good serviceable condition, as well as being attractive to the boys.

SYNOPSIS

Polly, the dancing girl from "The Riverside," a famous first dance hall, is kidnapped aboard the "Sea Sprite," the sailing schooner belonging to Hurricane Haley, a captain who fell in love with Polly. Through her Hurricane lost the savings of many hard cruises, and he blames the entire mishap on her. To revenge himself he treats her like a dog, and intends to make her work for him until the whole debt is paid. After her hard work in the galley she is made to dance for the crew. She rebels and tries to jump overboard and when she is dropped back Hurricane treats her more harshly than before. At every opportunity he taunts her, knowing that this hurts her more than any hardships.

Never, while she was saying this did the girl raise her voice, but now, as she looked at Hurricane and found him smiling sardonically, unbelieving, she broke down:

"Oh, Hurricane, can't you see I am telling the truth, put me off the boat, but believe me—please Hurricane—"

"More o' yer lies," Hurricane told her. "I suppose yer think I'll put yer off the boat, an' let yer go free."

"No," she repeated quietly. "I'm satisfied to stay. I want to stay." Hurricane looked at her long and strangely as if he were trying to see into her soul. Polly bore it steadily, then turned away and went down to her cabin. For a long time Hurricane stared straight ahead looking at the sea.

Next day Hurricane seemed to be another man. His assurance seemed to be gone, but never for one moment, did he cease to heap

Brady was by no means rebuffed, and edging closer he pawed her arm as he whispered:

"I could be mighty good to you. You wouldn't have to work or wash no shirts. If you'll only say the word I'll wipe the deck with him."

Polly did not even answer him, but a smile curled her lips as she thought of Brady whipping Hurricane. Going to the rail she jumped up and began to tighten her line. The wind caught the tattered bottoms of her wide overalls, where they were split to give her freedom of motion, and blew them around her legs.

Brady's thick lips parted in a leering smile as he watched her salt browned limbs. Polly noticed, and as if he were not there, pressed the ragged ends between her legs, and went on with her work. Her nonchalance whipped Brady to a desperation and state of dissatisfaction that he would never have felt otherwise.

As he turned away, he noticed a group of men idling in the shadow of a sail. Longing to find a vent for his rage he started towards them, snatching a belaying pin from the rail as he passed. As he heard them another thought entered his mind. A cunning look spread over his brute-like features and in the softest voice he could command, said:

"Come here lads, I want to speak to you."

He had picked three of the choicest spirits upon the ship, but the fourth, Limey, the little cockney, pricked up his ears as he heard the mate talking in this new voice. It boded no good to him. But seeing that some-one had hardships and abuse upon the girl. For days this went on till Brady, who though more beast than man, was still a sailor, told him that the sea Sprite was making little headway, and that her many tacks and cruises were bringing them no nearer to their destination.

"We're right in the steamer lanes to Vancouver," he growled. "And I don't want no two year's cruise again, anyhow."

A look from Hurricane silenced him, but it bred a feeling of antagonism between him and the skipper, which appeared in sundry little things. Hurricane noticed them and watched for further developments.

Brady was as nice to Polly as he knew how to be, not that he received any encouragement, nor because he expected to treat her in any different fashion than he usually treated women, but because he was afraid to bring his budding trouble with Haley to a head.

Polly was taking a real interest in her life. She could climb the rigging like a squirrel, and could race any man aboard to the cross trees. One day as the schooner was breezing along before stiff breeze, the wind suddenly veered, and as the Sea Sprite was bound north, but not to sea definite point, Brady called for all hands aloft to furl the lower canvas.

Polly was in her perch at the bow, and sauntered down the deck as the crew crowded the rigging. As they returned to the deck, Brady saw that the top-sail was flapping loose.

"Get up, one of you, and make fast the top-sail."

One of the men started to go, but much quicker than he, Polly raced to the cross trees and fastened the erring sail. Coming down she passed over Brady's head, and her bare legs, browned now with salt and wind, held the mate's eye. He shifted nervously, and looked around to see if Hurricane was on deck, then speaking to the man at the wheel, he left the bridge and went forward in search of Polly.

The girl was inspecting the morning's wash, held on a line by the simple method of turning the rope until the strands parted and then inserting a corner of the garment. This was the first real work that the girl had ever done, and she took a strange pride in doing it. As she stepped back to view the semi-whiteness of her work, Brady stepped up behind her and in his usual oily manner whispered:

"Say, Polly, you've never given me a turn, since you came aboard. You wasn't so high and mighty back in the Riverside."

Polly looked at him, and some of the scorn in her heart peeped from her eyes.

"That was my job—I was working for Crawley then, now I'm working for Hurricane an' I don't have to talk to you."

to take the lead if they were to learn anything, he asked, to an equally quiet voice.

"What do yer want, Guv'nor?"

"Look here lads," Brady whispered, "I want you to know in case anything happens, but the skipper's off his nut. He's liable to do anything, an' neither you nor me want to sail with a mad-mau. Look how he's been cruisin' up an' down without givin' us any where, an' before yer knows it were going to have another two years like the last. What say we put him in irons an' I'll take yer where the seal are, an' we'll soon be back in Frisco with lashings o' jack."

Limey smiled his acceptance, but the rest began to get scared.

"Look here, boys," Brady went on. "The law says that when a skipper is unfit to keep command of a ship when she's at sea, the crew can take charge. An' you can see for yourselves that the skipper's as crummy as hell."

"If you're sure that the law says," began Oily Larson, a big Swede, but before he could conclude, the low steely tones of Hurricane's voice floated back to them.

"So yer making up to him now, Gaud what a dirty little rat yer are. I guess scum just has to mix with scum." As Polly looked around, with temper flaming in her eyes he pushed her roughly.

"Get below," he ordered, "It's about time you thought about getting something to eat. This ain't no pleasure cruise for you."

Polly walked away with her head in the air, and Hurricane started forward to where Brady was watching him, the madness of desire having caused him to forget the prowess of his skipper's fist.

"Gaud, but you sure are a hog," he barked, "you don't want the girl, but you're too damned mean to let anyone else have a crack at her."

Hurricane started as if he were hurt, then without even moving his lips in answer he started a blow that would have removed the mate's head if it had landed. Brady was seeing red, and ducking the blow he closed with Haley. Neither knew much of science, neither cared, and they traded blows at one another with an abandon born of the oldest passion that has brought men to war.

Brady was the bigger of the two, also the strongest, but Hurricane's condition more than equalled this advantage, but he was by no means winning easily.

Polly, pressed tightly against the hatchway watched with her heart in her mouth. She had seen fights before, but never one on which so much depended. She had grown to trust Hurricane, but if he won she would exchange the cold scorn and abuse of Haley for the bestiality of the mate. With eyes wide open, and lips parted with excitement, she watched them.

SYNOPSIS

Polly, the dancing girl from "The Riverdance," a famous Frisco dance hall, is kidnapped aboard the "Sea Sprite," the sailing schooner, by a longshoreman named Hurricane, a captain who fell in love with Polly. Through her Hurricane lost the savings of many hard cruises, and he blames the entire mishap on her. To revenge himself he treats her like a dog, and intends to make her work for him until the whole debt is paid. After her hard work in the galley she is made to dance for the crew. She rebels and tries to jump overboard and when she is dragged back Hurricane treats her more harshly than before. At every opportunity he taunts her, knowing that this hurts her more than any hardships.

Never, while she was saying this did the girl raise her voice, but now, as she looked at Hurricane and found him smiling sardonically, unbelieving, she broke down:

"Oh, Hurricane, can't you see? I am telling the truth, put me off the boat, but believe me—please Hurricane."

"More o' yer lies," Hurricane told her. "I suppose yer think I'll put yer off the boat, an' let yer go free."

"No," she repeated quietly. "I'm satisfied to stay. I want to stay."

Hurricane looked at her long and strangely as if he were trying to see into her soul. Polly bore it steadily, then turned away and went down to her cabin. For a long time Hurricane stared straight ahead looking at the sea.

Next day Hurricane seemed to be another man. His assurance seemed to be gone, but never for one moment, did he cease to heap

Brady was by no means rebuffed, and edging closer he pawed her arm as he whispered:

"You wouldn't have to work or wash no shirts. If you'll only say the word I'll wipe the deck with him."

Polly did not even answer him, but a smile curled her lips as she thought of Brady whipping Hurricane. Going to the rail she jumped up and began to tighten her line. The wind caught the tattered bottoms of her wide overalls, where they were split to give her freedom of motion, and blew them around her legs.

Brady's thick lips parted in a leering smile as he watched her salt browned limbs. Polly noticed, and as if he were not there, pressed the ragged ends between her legs, and went on with her work. Her nonchalance whipped Brady to a desperation and state of dissatisfaction that he would never have felt otherwise.

As he turned away, he noticed a group of men idling in the shadow of a sail. Longing to find a vent for his rage he started towards them, snatching a belying pin from the rail as he passed. As he neared them another thought entered his mind. A cunning look spread over his brute-like features and in the softest voice he could command, said:

"Come here lads, I want to speak to you."

He had picked three of the choicest spirits upon the ship, but the fourth, Limey, the little cockney, pricked up his ears as he heard the mate talking in this new voice. It boded no good to him. But seeing that some-one had hardships and abuse upon the girl. For days this went on till Brady, who though more beast than man, was still a sailor, told him that the sea Sprite was making little headway, and that her many tacks and cruises were bringing them no nearer to their destination.

"We're right in the steamer lanes to Vancouver," he growled. "And I don't want no two year's cruise again, anyhow."

A look from Hurricane silenced him, but it bred a feeling of antagonism between him and the skipper, which appeared in sundry little things. Hurricane noticed them and watched for further developments.

Brady was as nice to Polly as he knew how to be, not that he received any encouragement, nor because he expected to treat her in any different fashion than he usually treated women, but because he was afraid of bringing his budding trouble with Haley to a head.

Polly was taking a real interest in her life. She could climb the rigging like a squirrel, and could race any man aboard to the cross trees. One day as the schooner was breezing along before stiff breeze, the wind suddenly veered, and as the sea Sprite was bound north, but not to any definite point, Brady called for all hands aloft to furl the lower canvas.

Polly was in her perch at the bow, and sauntered down the deck as the crew crowded the rigging. As they returned to the deck, Brady saw that the top-sail was flapping loose.

"Get up, one of you, and make fast the top-sail."

One of the men started to go, but much quicker than he, Polly raced to the cross trees and fastened the erring sail. Coming down she passed over Brady's head, and her bare legs, browned now with salt and wind, held the mate's eye. He shifted nervously, and looked around to see if Hurricane was on deck, then speaking to the man at the wheel, he left the bridge and went forward in search of Polly.

The girl was inspecting the morning's wash, held on a line by the simple method of turning the rope until the strands parted and then inserting a corner of the garment. This was the first real work that the girl had ever done, and she took a strange pride in doing it. As she stepped back to view the semi-whiteness of her work, Brady stepped up behind her and in his usual oily manner whispered:

"Say, Polly, you've never given me a tumble in since you came aboard. You wasn't so high and mighty back in the Riverdance."

Polly looked at him, and some of the scorn in her heart peeped from her eyes.

"That was my job—I was working for Crawley then, now I'm working for Hurricane an' I don't have to talk to you."

to take the lead if they were to learn anything, he asked, in an equally quiet voice.

"What do yer want, Guv'nor?"

"Look here lads," Brady whispered. "I want you to know in case anything happens, but the skipper's off his nut. He's liable to do anything, an' neither you nor me want to sail with a mad-man. Look how he's been cruising up an' down without gettin' anywhere, an' before yer knows it were a-going to have another two years like the last. What say we put him in irons an' I'll take yer where the seal are, an' we'll soon be back in Frisco with lashings of jack."

Limey smiled his acceptance, but the rest began to get scared. "Look here, boys," Brady went on. "The law says that when a skipper is unfit to keep command of a ship when she's at sea, the crew can take charge. An' you can see for yourselves that the skipper's as crummy as hell."

"If you're sure that the law says," began Oily Larson, a big Swede, but before he could conclude, the low steady tones of Hurricane's voice floated back to them.

"So yer making up to him now, Gaud? That dirty little rat yer are. I guess cum just has to mix with scum." As Polly looked around, with temper flaming in her eyes he pushed her roughly.

"Get below," he ordered. "It's about time you thought about getting something to eat. This ain't no pleasure cruise for you."

Polly walked away with her head in the air, and Hurricane started forward to where Brady was watching him, the madness of desire having caused him to forget the prowess of his skipper's fists. "Gaud, but you sure are a hog," he barked. "You don't want the girl, but you're too damned mean to let anyone else have a crack at her."

Hurricane started as if he were shot, then without even moving his lips in answer he started a blow that would have removed the mate's head if it had landed. Brady was seeing red, and ducking the blow he closed with Haley. Neither knew much of science, neither cared, and they rained blows at one another with an abandon born of the oldest passion that has brought men to war.

Brady was the bigger of the two, also the strongest, but Hurricane's condition more than equalled this advantage, but he was by no means winning easily.

Polly, pressed tightly against the hatchway watched with her heart in her mouth. She had seen fights before, but never one on so much depended. She had grown to trust Hurricane, but if Brady won she would exchange the cold scorn and abuse of Haley for the bestiality of the mate. With eyes wide open, and lips parted with excitement, she watched them.

Sore Throat Is Dangerous

Thoxine Relieves Quickly

Don't neglect sore throat—it often leads to tonsillitis, scarlet fever or diphtheria. Take Thoxine, a famous physician's prescription, which is remarkably successful because it works on a new principle—goes direct to the cause not reached by gargles and patent medicines and brings relief within 15 minutes, or money back. One swallow does the work.

Contains no iron, chloroform or other harmful drugs. Safe and sure—pleasant to take—much better than gargles. Ask for Thoxine, 35¢, 60¢ and $1.00. Sold by Skauge Drug Co. and all good drug stores.—Adv.

Quick Pile Relief

Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid is guaranteed to banish any form of Pile misery, or money back. It gives quick action even in old, stubborn cases. Hem-Roid is a harmless tablet that removes blood congestion in the lower bowel—the cause of piles. It brings joyful relief quickly and safely or costs nothing. H. P. Dunn, Johnson's Pharmacy and druggists everywhere sell it with this guarantee.—Adv.

Hot Sands

Take a tip from the desert. Let your furnace reflect the heat of the ages. You'll find it when you burn
